ELECT DOMESTIC SCIENCE TEACHER

And Pupils of the High School will be Given the Advantages of the New Course this Week. Well Equipped Room.

The teaching of domestic science in the Gettysburg High School will be started this week immediately upon the arrival of Miss Anna A. Fox, of Shenandoah, the newly elected teacher, who will at once take up the work in a well equipped room.

Miss Fox is expected either to-day or to-morrow. She is a teacher of fine preparation and a great deal of experience and will come here ready to take up the work. Miss Fox holds a diploma from Bloomsburg Normal School and also from Temple University, Philadelphia, where she took a course in domestic science and art. Before entering Bloomsburg Normal she taught for eight years in country schools.

The room which she will use for her department is located in the southwest corner of the second floor of the High School building. It is one of the large class rooms and, under the direction of the School Board, has been fully equipped. Twenty tables, fitted with bread boards and utensils and each with a small gas range, have been installed around three sides of the room and a class of that size may work without crowding each other. In addition, a large gas range will soon be received, built with many parts of glass, so that the operation and progress of baking may be watched without opening any doors.

Large glass cabinets for the storage of pans, pots and other cooking utensils, have been built at the one end of the room while a table, about 12 x 4 feet in size, occupies the center of the room and here the sewing classes will be conducted, the table being specially adapted to cutting and other parts of the work of a sewing class. Later it is expected to put in a first class sewing machine.

The equipment of this room has been made possible only through the careful management of the Board. Allen B. Plank generously donated all the twenty small gas ranges and put in the plumbing without any charge whatever. The tables and woodwork were put in by Messrs. Diehl and Stallsmith, at a cost to the tax-payers of ten estimated at $100 less than the necessary outlay, had the equipment been purchased out of town.

TWO WRECKES

Traffic Delayed by Wrecks on Saturday and Sunday.

Two more derailments occurred on the Western Maryland railroad Saturday and Sunday. A large freight engine jumped the track Saturday in the early part of the evening at Gladhill siding, and tied up traffic for several hours before it could be again placed on the rails.

Fourteen large battleship cars loaded with coal were derailed and badly mashed Sunday morning about eight o'clock at Virginia Mills when a piece of iron dropped from the trucks of the loaded cars and caused fourteen of the cars following to leave the rails and, after pounding along on the ties for perhaps a hundred yards, to pile up in a twisted mass.

Many of the cars were entirely overturned, others were turned over on their sides and several were standing on end, coal was scattered in all directions and it took a wrecking crew from eight in the morning until about nine o'clock in the evening to get the track repaired.

COLLEGE BOYS IN BIG SCRAP

Sophomore and Freshman Classes Have their Big Annual Fight. First Year Men Capture Tie-up but Sophomores Get the Match.

Rushing over Nixon Field at full speed, from opposite directions, the two lower classes of Gettysburg College fell upon each other with deadly vengeance in the big annual scrap on Saturday afternoon and battled to the finish before a crowd of enthusiastic spectators.

It was the third year that the "tie-up" had been tried to test the courage and valor of the new men and this year's class came out with colors flying as they defeated the Sophomores by the handsome margin of 62 to 26. As an off-set to this however, was the score of 40 points made by the second year class earlier in the afternoon when their ten picked men won the tug-of-war from ten almost equally valiant Freshmen, the final score being 66 to 62 in favor of the older class.

This tug-of-war was closely contested and, while their classes cheered and urged them on, the twenty men strained every muscle to get their opponents over the required line. After two long pulls the Sophomores were declared victors and then came the call for the tie-up.

Arranging themselves at either end of the field the contestants awaited the call to charge and, when it came, they traveled at their fastest for their opponents. When they met a free-for-all fight ensued in which each class endeavored to bind hand and foot as many of the opposing force as possible. Rolling over the ground, beating and fighting, the youngsters worked their hardest, while a big squad of upper-classmen in fancy costume watched closely for unnecessary roughness. Not one man was disqualified and the fight was remarkably clean. At the end of ten minutes, time was called and the score announced. Two points being registered for every man carried back of the goals.

L. T. L. MEETING

Legioners Discuss New Anti Cigarette Law. Its Possibilities.

The regular meeting of the Walter Senior Loyal Temperance Legion was held on Saturday afternoon, September 13th at the home of Mrs. Z. J. Peters, Guernsey.

Wallace Peters, presiding officer for the day, called the meeting to order. Several items of business were transacted among which were the reading of the minutes and the proposal of new members.

The literary program was given over to the anti-cigarette department. A very interesting and instructive paper was read by Miss Anna Michener. The paper was followed by a discussion of some length, which may be summed up in these few sentences.

"Since the teacher is not able to enforce the second clause of the new anti-cigarette law without incurring the parent's displeasure, it follows that the law was enacted before public opinion was ready. Therefore the Loyal Temperance Legion must educate public opinion."

The meeting adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. Aaron I. Weidner, Arendtsville.

GENERAL INTEREST

More General Purchase of Tickets for Within the Law.

Gettysburg's theatre-goers have at last awakened to the value of "Within the Law", the big show which will appear in Walter's Theatre this evening, and a full house is promised for the attraction. "Within the Law" is one of the great dramas of the present day and it is most unusual for a first class New York cast, carrying a carload of special scenery, to visit a town the size of Gettysburg. Manager Walter is most anxious that Gettysburg show its appreciation of this treat and that the people turn out with generous patronage.—advertisement

AUTO ACCIDENTS HERE AND NEARBY

Gettysburg Autoists Arrive on Scene soon after Man is Killed in Crash at Crossing. Another Accident on Seminary Ridge.

J. Frank Eline, president of the J. Frank Eline Co., an electrical supply house, Baltimore, and president of the Baltimore Electrical Commission, was instantly killed and three men who were with him were injured, when the automobile in which they were driving collided with a fast train of the Western Maryland Railway at Smyser's Crossing, on the York-Gettysburg pike, about two and a half miles from York, Saturday night.

Those injured were: Frank Rodgers, Baltimore; Thomas Grimes, Ellicott City, Md.; John Gerwitz, Ellicott City, Md.

Two Gettysburg automobiles, the one driven by John McIlhenny and the other by Howard Armor, happened along just after the accident occurred and the occupants rendered what assistance they could.

The men had been at Mount St. Mary's College on Saturday, where Mr. Eline was an instructor in electrical engineering, and were on their way to York. Tire trouble caused numerous delays along the way or York would have been reached long before dark. It was about 8:30 o'clock when the accident occurred.

"As we passed along the road toward the railroad crossing I noticed a bridge ahead of us," said Mr. Rodgers, "and found that it was over a brook. It kept my attention until we got safely across. Just as we had passed over it and were about to proceed faster Mr. Eline threw up his hand and I looked and saw the train approaching. I heard no signal and the only lights were those in the passenger cars on the train. The engine did not have a headlight.

"I swerved to my right to ditch the automobile in an effort to avoid the accident and the crash occurred. I was pinned to my seat by a part of the wind shield, which had been broken, and when I awoke myself I felt to my left Mr. Eline. He was not there, but his seat was intact. I then leaped from the car and on the ground, face downward, just in back of the machine and directly in the middle of the road, I found him. I took the cushions from the automobile and placed them along the side of the road and called for someone to help me. There was no response and I carried Mr. Eline to the side of the road and laid him on the cushions.

"I then opened his clothing and felt for signs of life. His heart seemed still and I raised his head. At that instant he gasped and fell back. I knew it was the last. The train was stopped and the engineer and others of the crew came back. The engineer said he had blown his whistle as he approached the crossing, but if he did no one in the automobile heard it. I examined the automobile and found that the engine had crushed the front left wheel. It was on the side Mr. Eline had been seated. He was catapulted from the vehicle."

MET ON CURVE

Automobile and Wagon Met at Sharp Curve on Seminary Ridge.

Seminary Ridge was the scene of another accident on Saturday afternoon shortly after three o'clock when one of Holtzworth and Hoffman's three seated wagons was run into by the new Buick automobile owned and driven by Miss Anna Gilliland. Fortunately no-one in either conveyance was hurt.

As in the case of former accidents at this point, the intersection of Springs avenue and West Confederate avenue, neither one of the parties could see the other until they had met. Miss Gilliland was coming toward town and the two horse wagon, driven by James Weaver, was going out Springs avenue with a party of tourists.

Just at the sharp curve, where the driver of one conveyance could not hear or see the other, the machine ran into the front wheel of the wagon, breaking the front axle in two and knocking out seven or eight spokes of the wheel. The automobile had one of the front lights broken and the fender on the side which ran into the wagon was badly bent.

Mr. Weaver was able to finish his five years old and the other one year old. H. A. Sheely, County Home.—advertisement

ROUTE NAMED FOR LINCOLN HIGHWAY

Ten Million Dollar Highway from Coast to Coast Planned through Gettysburg. Half of the Money already Subscribed.

In Gettysburg and several scores of towns announcement was made Sunday of the route for the proposed Lincoln Memorial Highway from New York to San Francisco, now being promoted in Detroit with the idea of having its cost of $10,000,000 met by public subscription.

The states which will be honored by this memorial to Abraham Lincoln are New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada and California.

Starting in New York City the highway passes through Jersey City, Newark and Trenton to Philadelphia, then west by way of Lancaster, York, Gettysburg, Chambersburg, Bedford and Greensburg, to Pittsburgh, through the north central section of Ohio, over to Fort Wayne and South Bend, skirts Chicago, enters Joliet, Rochelle, Sterling and other Illinois cities, reaches Iowa at Clinton and leaves at Council Bluffs, passes through Omaha, goes to Denver and north to Cheyenne, west through Green River and Evanston to Salt Lake City, finds its way into Nevada by way of Tippet's ranch and after reaching Reno, goes to Lake Tahoe, California, finally ending on the Pacific seaboard at Oakland and San Francisco.

The directors of the Lincoln Highway Association have endeavored to select a route of easy grades yet combining the scenic splendors of the country. Some of the points either on, adjacent to or to be connected by branch highways are Gettysburg, Washington, Canton, the resting place of McKinley, the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, the home of Lincoln in Springfield, Ill., Lincoln's birthplace in Kentucky, the scenic splendors of Colorado, the Grand Canon of the Colorado, and the many varied wonders of Utah, Nevada and California.

Large posters and display proclamation of the route finally decided upon by the directors of the association after this transcontinental highway had been endorsed by the State Governors at their meeting at Colorado Springs a few weeks ago, were recently sent from Detroit, to governors, legislators, business men and automobile concerns, in the thirteen states to be traversed by the Lincoln Highway, and to public officials and leading business men in all of the larger cities of the country. It cost $6,000 in stamps to mail the 125,000 large tubes containing the printed matter. The addressing was done by a corps of 100 stenographers who worked at the task exclusive of everything else. Fully twice as many more were required to fill the tubes and prepare them for mailing.

As soon as the total of $10,000,000 of subscription is obtained, more than half of which has already been pledged in writing by less than 500 concerns and individuals, the real work of establishing this continuous and improved highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific will be begun.

WOMEN SECURING PERMITS TO HUNT

Many Signify their Intention of Hunting this Fall. One Gettysburg Woman First in Adams County to Get the License.

A number of Adams County women have signified their intention of taking out hunters' license this fall but up to the present time, only one has applied and paid her fee of $1.00 for the necessary permit. Mrs. Moses Bair, of Gettysburg, is the first woman in Adams County to take out such license.

In the other counties of the State, since the issuance began at the offices of the treasurers of the various counties ten days ago, many have applied for licenses, and a number of treasurers have reported that in many cases wives have accompanied their husbands to the offices and secured their cards and tags at the same time.

This licensing of women as hunters has been on a greater scale than expected and State game officials say that it illustrates the popularity of the autumn sport in the woods and that many people who have not been thought of as hunters will take out licenses.

It is expected that thousands of hunters will be enrolled during September and that by the time the hunting season opens close to 100,000 will have paid their dollars.

One half of the income from the sale of licenses is to be used to pay the bounties offered by the State for the scalps of destructive animals and birds.

INSPECTORS TO MEET

Orchard Men will Hold Conference in Harrisburg Next Month.

Results of the inspection of over 200,000 orchards and demonstration of new methods of combating the San Jose scale and other fruit tree pests are on the program for the annual meeting of the State Division of Zoology field force, which is to meet in Harrisburg next month to outline its work for the fall and winter. The demonstrators and inspectors will be addressed by State Zoologist H. A. Surface on some recent discoveries of parasites that destroy the voracious scale on peach and other trees and practical work in orchards near Harrisburg will be done for the instruction of the force. The demonstration of spraying, pruning and other orchard work will commence in November and continue as long as the weather permits. Demonstrations will be given in every county and during the winter inspection of about 25,000 orchards not yet examined will be undertaken.

PRIEST ADMITS KILLING WOMAN

Says He Hacked Body With a Knife and Saw.

LIVED WITH HER IN FLAT

New York Clergyman Tells How He Wrapped Up Portions of Body and Dropped Them in River From Ferry-boat.

New York, Sept. 15.—The most gruesome murder since the killing of Guildensuppe was revealed when Hans Schmidt, a Catholic priest, 32 years old, confessed to the slaying and cutting up of the body of Anna Amuller, 21 years old, in a flat at 68 Broadhurst avenue, where he was living with her. The slain girl had been employed at the parish house of St. Boniface's church, Forty-seventh street and Second avenue, where Schmidt became acquainted with her some time ago. She disappeared about two weeks ago. She was about to become a mother, and when this was discovered, she was ordered to leave immediately. She went at once to the priest, who placed her in the flat.

His confession clears the mystery of the torso found in the North river a week ago sewed in a pillow case, the identity of which has been a puzzle ever since its discovery.

Schmidt, who lives in the parish house of St. Joseph's church, at 405 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, with other priests connected with the church, was arrested by Inspector Faurot and charged with the murder.

He broke down and in a wild frenzy of fear made a complete confession so horrifying in its details that the inspector could only compare it to the ravings of a madman. The young priest told how he had fallen in love with the pretty girl, who had been in this country only three years; how he had rented a flat and furnished it; how he had previously married the girl with a ceremony self-performed, and how finally he had entered the flat at midnight August 31, armed with a new butcher knife.

"Anna was asleep," he cried pacing the floor and wringing his hands. "I entered softly and she awoke and recognized me. 'Anna,' I said, 'I love you dearly. I am now going to prove it.' He then seized her by the hair and, drawing the knife, cut her throat from ear to ear.

He then dragged the bleeding body to the little bathroom and taking a new saw, which he had purchased with the knife, he proceeded to dismember the body.

"First," he says in his confession, "I cut off her arms, and having laid them aside, cut off her legs close to the trunk, and in all, I made five bundles of the body."

Having cut up the body, the slayer was seized with the terrible fear of discovery. He ran about the apartment like a madman trying to think how to get rid of the bloody witness of his deed.

All night he considered then he decided definitely on his action. He wrapped the portions of the body in sheets and pillow slips and determined to throw them into the Hudson.

On the following evening he carried the torso from the apartment, carefully wrapped in a pillow slip and waited until he thought the coast was clear before he descended the three flights of stairs with the heavy bundle. Having reached the street unseen he made his way to an Eighth avenue car, boarded it, rode to One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, transferred to a cross-town car and proceeded to the Fort Lee ferry.

Standing on the rear end of the boat he waited until it reached mid stream, and then, leaning over quietly dropped the bundle into the river. Five distinct times he made the trip from the Broadhurst avenue flat across the Hudson, each time bearing a portion of Miss Amuller's body, and each time dropping it into the water. Having cleared the apartment of the most damning evidences of his crime, he was still confronted with the blood-stained mattress on which he had killed his victim.

For some time he was puzzled as to how to dispose of this bulky witness against him. Finally he carried it in the dark vacant lot at One Hundred and Forty-fourth street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, and there set it on fire. A portion of this mattress is now in the possession of the police.

St. Boniface's Catholic church admitted that Schmidt is an ordained priest and was assistant there three years ago. He says himself he has been stationed also in Louisville, Ky. and in Trenton, N. J., in 1910.

HUNDREDS VIEW SULLIVAN'S BODY

"Big Tim" Was Killed by a Train 13 Days Ago.

New York, Sept. 15.—Hundreds of friends of the late Timothy D. Sullivan representative in congress, thronged the Sullivan club house at 27 Bowery to view the body, which was brought from the morgue to lie in state here.

It has not been explained why the name of "Big Tim" Sullivan, which were on his clothing and hat were not investigated. His linen also bore his initials and the name of the maker was in his shoes. Despite all these marks his body was listed as "unknown."

His body had lain for 13 days in the morgue and was on the way to Potter's Field when it was identified by Larry Sullivan, his step-brother. Sullivan, who was ill, eluded his nurses in the early morning of August 31, and a few hours after was struck and killed by a train at Pelham Parkway.

So many friends and relatives identified the body at the morgue as that of the beloved Bowery politician that wonder is expressed that it was permitted to lie in the Fordham morgue 13 days without efforts being made to run down the several clues—that of a tailor's label in the coat and the name of one of his nurses in the band of the hat he wore when he was killed.

POISON KILLS CHILDREN

Baby Drinks Carbolic Acid; Boy Victim of Candy Ptomaines.

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 15.—Florence, 18-month-old daughter of Dennis Reardon, of 1035 Pine street, died at the Delaware Hospital from the effects of carbolic acid which she swallowed. The poison was in a cup in the bathroom and was used for disinfecting purposes. The baby toddled into the room and, thinking she was drinking water, swallowed some of the fluid. She ran screaming to her mother, who was sick in bed. Attempts were made to get a physician, but failing in this the child was sent to the hospital, where she died two hours later.

Thomas Calvin Hughes, aged 10 years, of 232 French street, died at his home from ptomaine poisoning, the result of eating cheap candy, which had been colored with some kind of dye. The boy worked at a candy stand near his home and had eaten some of the sweets. He became ill and three physicians attributed his illness to the candy.

WORDS FROM HOME

Statements That May Be Investigated. Testimony of Gettysburg Citizens.

When a Gettysburg citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can be sure of its sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Gettysburg resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

Mrs. J. Menchey, 46 Breckenridge St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Since I used and publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago I have had no further need of a kidney medicine. I never enjoyed very good health and when kidney complaint came on, it caused me much distress. I had pains in my back and frequently had dizzy spells and chills. When a friend told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box at the People's Drug Store. This remedy acted promptly and before long, I was in good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agent for the United States.

EX-JUDGE'S RICH GIFT INVALID

Mr. Harvey Made Codicil and Died in a Month.

MAIN CHARITY A FORFEIT

The Law Forbids Benevolent Bequests so Shortly Before the Giver's Death.

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 15.—Allentown stands amazed over the probability that the will of former Judge Edward Harvey, its greatest lawyer, president of the Second National Bank and of the Allentown Hospital, is invalid, in so far as his $250,000 bequest to the Allentown Hospital is concerned, as the last codicil covering it was made less than 30 days before he died.

The alleged flaw in his will, which Mr. Harvey himself drew with conscientious care, recalls the flaw in the will of his life-long friend, the late Chief Justice Paxson, whose charitable bequests, notably that of almost $1,000,000 to the Buckingham Farm School were set aside.

In the first draft of his will, executed July 1, 1908, Mr. Harvey first of all bequeathed $50,000 in trust for the benefit of his aged aunt, Miss Augusta Cassine Morris, and commanded that his home be kept up in the same style as though he were living as long as she lived. After her death this $50,000 was to go at once to the Allentown Hospital, the income to go to the maintenance fund. There is no question of the validity of this bequest, as it was not changed later. Further on, in this original will, Mr. Harvey, after making a number of personal and charitable bequests, has this provision: "All the rest of my estate I give and bequeath one-half to my two sisters, and the remaining half to the Allentown Hospital, to be used for maintenance."

In a codicil, dated August 21, of this year Mr. Harvey changed this section of the original will, after making a bequest of $50,000 to the Phoebe Deaconess and Old Folks' Home, of this city, to read: "I give one-third of the remainder of my estate to my sister, Sara M. Newell, of Doylestown, another one-third to my sister, Emily H. Rex, of Norristown, and the remaining one-third to the Allentown Hospital, to be used for endowment fund and income for maintenance."

This codicil is less than 30 days old, and, it is declared by competent attorneys, cannot stand under the laws of Pennsylvania. It is declared that the revocation of the one-half of the estate to the hospital in the original will is valid, but that the new bequest of one-third to the institution in a codicil less than 30 days old cannot stand and will not be confirmed by the courts.

It is stated that when Mr. Harvey made his codicil one relative annoyed him very much by objecting to his bequest of $50,000 to the Phoebe Home. In answer to this objection Mr. Harvey said: "I have given to my sisters $100,000 outright more in the codicil than in the original will. And I have further arranged the will so that each sister shall receive one-third of the residue instead of one-quarter. Now, rather than have you defeat my intention to make a small bequest to the Phoebe Home, I shall not make any change at all." The relatives, seeing a total gain of about $100,000, consented to the codicil.

COURT AIDS MAN TO REACH JOB

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 15.—After fighting a train crew on the Federal express on the Pennsylvania Railroad John Henry was haled out of a men's retiring room, rushed to court, reprimanded and ordered out of town at once. The man jumped on the train in Philadelphia, barricaded the men's retiring room and the train crew had to break down the door before they got him. He insisted that he was justified in asking the railroad to transport him in this condition where he could get hold of his job.

He told the court that he had been out of work many months, had a large family, now almost destitute, proved that he had given them all the money he had in the world and started East without a cent to get to the job in a strange city. The long distance telephone verified his statements. The man was allowed to go, money was thrust in his hands at the station, he has a ticket and is on his way to Boston to get money to support his family.

NAVAL OFFICER'S WIFE HELD AS SHOPLIFTER

Philadelphia Police Believe She Is a Kleptomaniac.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 15.—After concealing her identity for three days, a handsomely groomed and refined appearing young woman was arrested Friday for shoplifting, admitted to the police that she is the wife of Lieutenant W. S. Rickert, a wealthy young naval officer stationed at the Brooklyn navy yard.

She also informed the police that she is a daughter of Mrs. Anna Copp of 62 Long avenue, Pittsburgh, that she met Lieutenant Rickert at Coney Island and married him three weeks ago after a rapid courtship.

Resisting every effort of the police to discover her identity the young woman did not weaken until she was confronted with some letters which were found in her rooms. These letters were from Lieutenant Rickert and indicated that she was his wife, the police say. In one of the letters the lieutenant made an appointment to meet his bride in New York on Sunday. She broke down completely and wept when she saw the letters. The young woman's mother was sent for. In the opinion of the police, the fair prisoner is a kleptomaniac.

Mrs. Rickert was arrested Friday in a local department store. She was seen, it is alleged, to extract a purse from the handbag of another woman. When she was searched two silk dresses closely wrapped and bearing the tags of the store were found concealed upon her person.

ARGENTINE BEEF ARRIVES

Butter From Siberia and Australia
Also Awaits Tariff Drop.

New York, Sept. 15.—The first commercial shipment of Argentine beef that ever reached New York was brought here by the steamship Vandyke from Buenos Ayres. It consisted of 1000 quarters, and on account of the high price of domestic beef the importers expect to make a good profit on their venture.

Butter from Siberia and Australia is here in bond waiting to make its debut into the American market along with the beef. A full thousand firkins of the Siberian product, weighing about 144 pounds each, are stored in warehouses waiting the passage of the new tariff bill, which would reduce the present six cents tariff on butter to two and a half cents. Delivered into the refrigerators, the Siberian butter has cost 29.5 cents a pound and, adding the tax under the proposed tariff, it would come to the dealer at 23.1 cents, about five cents under the prevailing prices for butter of similar grade from domestic dairies.

Some of the experts declare that the Siberian produce is as good as the best grades of domestic butter. A smaller quantity of Australian butter and also a little from Canada also is here in bond awaiting the opening of the gate into the American market.

Buried Alive, But Saved.

Bloomsburg, Pa., Sept. 15.—Buried alive beneath a fall of many tons of earth, Hugh D. Quick and Bruce Penman had a narrow escape from death. They were making a deep excavation for a new theatre and the top of an embankment 40 feet high crashed down upon them. Fellow workmen dug them out. Penman collapsed and is in a serious condition. Both men were badly bruised, but Quick not seriously hurt.

GUESTS FLEE BURNING HOTEL

All Escape But One Man, Who Dies in Fire.

MANY NARROW ESCAPES

Guests of a Berlin, Md., Hostelry
Leave Building in Their Night Clothes.

Berlin, Md., Sept. 15.—In a fire, which destroyed the Park Hotel here, Theodore M. Palmatory, seventy-two years old, was burned to death, and several other persons escaped after climbing in their night clothes from windows.

For nearly an hour, despite efforts of the Berlin Volunteer Fire Department, a large section of the town was threatened because of the high wind.
The hotel loss will amount to about $15,000.

The blaze was discovered by Miss Mary Anderson, one of the oldest residents of Berlin, who lives in the Atlantic Hotel. Responding to the alarm men aroused the guests. It was soon seen that it was useless to try to save the building.

Men ran through the hotel calling to guests and shutting doors to check the rush of smoke that filled the building. Robert J. Massey and A. L. Godfrey, hotel clerks, were asleep on the third floor. When they were awakened the flames were leaping up the stairway leading to their rooms, and blocking their escape from the windows.

They grouped through the smoke until they reached a window and lowered themselves to a second-story window from which they jumped to the ground. Godfrey was burned but his injuries are not thought to be serious. Both were nearly suffocated.
Daniel James jumped from the window of his room, but lost his personal effects, as did Massey and Godfrey.

Palmatory was asleep in a room on the third floor, and before assistance could reach him the flames had enveloped his apartment. Heroic efforts were made by the rescuers to save him, but all avenues of escape had been cut off. His charred body was found in the debris.

Palmatory came from Swyrna, Del., about thirty years ago, and for a long time was Berlin agent of the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company. He formerly was cashier for the L. L. Dirickson Banking Company. He took an active part in Republican politics. He retired from business several years ago.

the institution was closed by State shortage of more than $200,000, sur-to Newark, where a conference of the bank officials was being held.

It was reported that Smith was in constant communication with friends here and his surrender is supposed to be the result of conferences which resulted in some plan of settlement being devised.
